Completed Features:

There were no features that were completed by the time of the meeting, each member of the group was at a different stage in their personal task/ development. Also the group was at different understanding levels of React.js and javascript, and this led to the group meetings leading up to the demo being focused more on equalizing the understanding of each group member. Tasks / features of the website were partitioned individually to members and were still in an early stage of development during the demo. The interview with the TA was mostly spent discussing the features of the website, and asking questions for the TA to help give us guidance on.

Issues:

One of the largest issues which we faced in developing our project was all of the Corona virus panic and protocols making us unable to meet in person, and unable to find time in which to meet over Zoom. This was obviously an issue because face-to-face meetings, and the ability to mentor skills in person is huge within our project. One of our group members was going to help us develop skills in React every week, and without that opportunity, it is much harder to hone these new skills on your own without leadership. These problems have since been resolved by finding new times to meet virtually, utilizing more of our KanBan board in order to assign responsibility when we are not meeting, and getting useful resources from the TA which we interviewed with.

TA Suggestions:

The helpful suggestions from the TA were to explore as many online resources as possible in terms of javascript and react to develop understanding including websites and youtube videos. He also suggested reading the documentation for firebase as a backend system because this would be very helpful in the implementation of our website:
